

Kneeslider GDPR Notice

GDPR (the new Data Protection Regulation) affects everybody and came into force May 2018.

We'd just like to outline some points to maintain both transparency and integrity, and are obliged to remind you of our full Privacy Policy.

1. We'd like to assure everybody that we take everybody's privacy seriously and nothing that identifies a person is shared by Kneeslider without consent. If you attend a gig and someone tags a photograph of you on social media, this is beyond our control and we recommend that you edit your settings to 'approve' before it is published.

2. We scrapped using emailing lists due to scamming, spamming, hacking and phishing concerns. We do not use third party email domains such as Hotmail, Outlook, Live, Yahoo or Google etc. Emails from the band will only be from kneeslider.net (unless the email is from an individual band member personal address which is beyond Kneeslider's control). Email addresses are not stored on any device.

3. Contact telephone numbers of clients are not stored on any device other than band member personal phones. These details are used for the purpose of bookings only and personal numbers are never shared.

4. Contact telephone numbers of people receiving SMS gig alerts are stored by a third party internet application based in the UK, for the purpose of informing people when and where we are playing. These numbers are never shared or stored by Kneeslider. If you feel you did not consent to your mobile number being used, or wish to cease receipt of these messages, please visit our 'social' page and request us to remove you. Equally, if you are reading this notice and would like to opt in to this service, you can be added. By providing your mobile phone number, you are consenting for us to use it for the purpose of band alerts only. We must stress that only the number is stored. We will not ask for your name and therefore you will not be identified.

5. Our website is hosted by Homestead which is based in the USA. All content published on the Kneeslider website is stored by Lee Hines on a secure hard drive. Content is used to build and maintain the website and is uploaded to the Homestead server. This does not include personal contact details such as telephone numbers, addresses or email addresses. These are not stored. It does however include photographs. We have not 'knowingly' stored or published a photograph of anyone without their consent. However, if you feel that your photograph has been used on our website without your permission, and would like it removed, please contact us and we will action it. This applies to our website only and not social media.

6. It was a requirement and condition of all musicians within Kneeslider, past and present, to consent that their photographs could be used on the Kneeslider website and social media. This was and is both a verbal and written agreement.
